HEALTHERS MAY PADLOCK JAIL, COUNCIL LEARNS

Letter Warning Of Action Sent To Officials At Wednesday Meeting

PRISON CONDEMNED

Safety Committee Striving For Improvement

Unless council takes immediate action to correct the unsanitary condition of the city jail it may be padlocked by the Board of Health.

The board of health sent a letter to council condemning the jail and requesting some immediate action.

The letter, signed by Mrs. Harriett Wallace, secretary of the board, and sent at the request of Mayor W. B. Cady, president, stated:

"The Board of Health of Circleville, Ohio, in regular session March 7, 1938, voted to take definite action to improve the unsanitary conditions existing in the city jail.

"The city Board of Health has condemned the jail and unless immediate action is taken by the council it will be obliged to padlock the doors."

Councilmen ordered the letter placed on file. They still hope some arrangement may be worked out to build an addition to the municipal building which would include a jail. So far city officials have been unable to get any assurance that they can obtain government aid for the project.

The safety committee of council, studying the project, asked further time Wednesday evening to make a report. The committee has inspected available space in the city building that might be used for a jail and has considered the possible improvement of the basement plan to meet with the county commissioners soon to determine if county aid could be obtained if arrangements are made to take care of juveniles.

CITY TO PROVIDE FLOAT FOR NORTHWEST EVENT

Circleville's Chamber of Commerce will present a float in the Northwest Territory celebration to be held on May 9.

It will probably be a reproduction of the old courthouse or depict some event in the city's early history. Directors will confer with Dr. Howard Jones, historian, for data for the float.

The Redman lodge expects to have a delegation of about 50 members, dressed in lodge costumes, meet the caravan and participate in the parade.

New Crisis in Spanish War Alarms France

Top, French troops; below, map of Spain, showing insurgent moves

General Franco

PLEAS of the Spanish Loyalist government for aid poured in on the new French cabinet as insurgents, under Gen. Francisco Franco, aided by large forces of Italians and smaller forces of Germans, threatened Barcelona. France massed troops, guns and war planes along her Pyrenees border as fears were expressed that the Loyalist government might collapse in the face of the insurgent onslaught. Adding to the discomfort of France and Great Britain was the expressed fears of a deal between Hitler and Mussolini to let Italy win out in Spain in return for Germany's annexation of Austria.

Penniless Mother Kills Six Children; One Spared

CENTER, Tex., March 17 — (UP) — Mrs. Lillie Mae Curtis, 38, shot six of her seven children to death in their sleep last night, Sheriff J. B. Sample of Shelby county reported today.

NOTE TO PRIEST REPORTED CLUE TO LEVINE BOY

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 17 — (UP) — Reports that a New York City priest had received a letter supposedly from the kidnappers of 12-year-old Peter Levine persisted today despite the denial of the boy's father, Murray Levine.

The letter was said to have contained a passage which read: "Peter Levine is O. K. Call off the cops."

At his 11 p. m. telephone conference with reporters last night, Levine was asked: "Have you received a communication from a Manhattan priest?" "No, I have not," he replied, adding that March 1 was the most recent date on which he knew his son to have been alive. Peter was kidnapped for $30,000 ransom Feb. 24 on his way home from school. The priest's name and the circumstances under which he supposedly received the kidnap letter were reported to be a secret by G-men.

Levine, for the first time since the abduction, visited his law offices in New York City yesterday as federal and local authorities continued a block-by-block search of New Rochelle's 10.2 square miles. Several small islands in Long Island sound south of the city also were searched.

"SHOTGUN TRAP" COSTLY

FLINT, Mich., March 17 — (UP) — Pano Gologonoff, 39, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the first degree "shotgun trap" murder in 1933 of James Aleff.

POLAND "INFORMED"

LONDON, March 17 — (UP) — The British ambassador at Warsaw has been instructed to inform Poland of the importance which Britain attaches to amicable settlement of the Polish-Lithuanian border dispute, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told a questioner today in the house of commons.

BRITISH PREPARING

LONDON, March 17 — (UP) — Britain's plans for building capital ships over 35,000 tons, if necessary, are well advanced, Geoffrey Shakespeare, financial undersecretary of the admiralty, told the house of commons today in introducing the 1938 navy estimates.

INCOME TAX PLEAS

WASHINGTON, March 17 — (UP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., today expressed satisfaction with March income tax returns which are running 18 percent ahead of last year.

Curtis home 22 miles east of here. "I had no money and they are better off dead," Mrs. Curtis told Sheriff Sample.

The dead: T. O. Curtis, 13. Gloria Gene, 11. Billie Burke, 10. Robert, nine. Margie Dee, seven. Marcia Jack, five.

Mrs. Curtis spared her seventh and eldest child, Travis, 15, and sent him for officers. The children were killed in their beds. Mrs. Curtis shot each through the left chest with a .22 caliber pistol, according to District Attorney Wardlow Lane, who took a statement from Mrs. Curtis and filed six murder charges against her.

Three years ago, Mrs. Curtis shot and killed her husband, Robert, in the same way. She waited until he was asleep and then sent a bullet through his heart. She was tried and given a suspended sentence.

Mrs. Curtis readily admitted the slayings. "Last night I decided to kill them because we had no money and I was unable to support them," she said. "They were too young to support themselves and were better off dead."

"I decided not to kill Travis, who is 15 and the oldest, because he would get out and work. "I kissed them all good night and sent them to bed and then got my gun out of my dresser. "I went back into the kitchen and sat down with the gun across my lap. I waited to be sure that all were asleep. Then I went to the bed of T. O. and shot him first. Then I killed the others according to their ages, leaving the baby until the last."

"None of them woke up, although several struggled after I shot them. The others slept through the shootings. I had to wake Travis and tell him what I had done."

Travis, dazed and terrified, fled to the home of a neighbor, who summoned officers. Mrs. Curtis waited at her home until Sheriff Sample arrived.

At the conclusion of the three-day preliminary hearing Chief Justice Burt W. Griffin of the Cleveland municipal court, bound Bradley over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

The court held that there was "probable cause" to justify grand jury consideration of whether an indictment should be returned against Bradley, a former employee of the Davey Tree Expert Co., for testimony he gave before the senate graft investigating committee. The perjury charge stemmed from Bradley's statement that he sought campaign funds as the governor's representative from automobile manufacturing and utility companies. In his ruling Judge Griffin said he felt there was great doubt that General Motors Corp., considered a $25,000 contribution early in the governor's first primary campaign; noted that Bradley did not submit to cross examination, and said value of Bradley's correspondence rested solely on the veracity of Bradley himself. He recalled that no witnesses appeared for Bradley.

BARCELONA HIT BY WARPLANES OF REBEL ARMY

Victims Of Bombs Crushed In Buildings; Cabinet Meets With Azana

MOON HELPS AVIATORS

100 Feared Dead In Single Public Building

BARCELONA, March 17 — (UP) — For 12 hours death came in relays to Barcelona today during one of the most devastating air attacks of the civil war, leaving an estimated 1,200 dead and hundreds injured.

The toll mounted hourly as rescue workers toiled in the smoking ruins of buildings, factories and a hotel and dance hall where victims lay under stones and debris. Fifteen were crushed to death in the entrance to a subway.

The hospitals were filled with dead and dying and military hospitals were being used as civilian hospitals filled up with a constant stream of injured.

Cabinet Called

As the panic subsided the populace slowly regained its morale. The cabinet met under President Manuel Azana in the former palace of former King Alfonso.

The surrounding streets were packed with thousands of demonstrators. Orators using loud speakers urged men to go to the front and fight and encouraged the rear guard to remain steadfast in the face of the threat to the Catalonian borders.

Taking advantage of a clear night and a bright moon that made the Loyalist capital a perfect target, the first bombers roared over at 10:15 o'clock last night. Anti-aircraft guns broke out in a deafening barrage of fire, but the planes dropped their loads on crowded districts and departed.

Thereafter at intervals during the night and until 10 a. m. today, the planes came over, flying high and showering death and destruction. While the bombs were raining, the cabinet stayed in an emergency session.

JURY TO START BRADLEY PROBE IN NEXT MONTH

CLEVELAND, March 17 — (UP) — The Cuyahoga county grand jury probably will begin consideration of Gov. Martin L. Davey's charge of perjury against Lee Bradley, self-styled former "contact man" for Davey, sometime next month, officials indicated today.

At the conclusion of the three-day preliminary hearing Chief Justice Burt W. Griffin of the Cleveland municipal court, bound Bradley over to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

The court held that there was "probable cause" to justify grand jury consideration of whether an indictment should be returned against Bradley, a former employee of the Davey Tree Expert Co., for testimony he gave before the senate graft investigating committee. All Main Highways Are Open

All state and federal highways in Pickaway county were clear of flood waters of the Scioto river at noon Thursday. The Canal road, a county highway extending from Route 22 southward to Westfall, remained closed.

The last main highway opened was Route 22, west of Circleville. It was opened to traffic about 4 p. m. Wednesday. Flood waters remained level with the highway Thursday. The river stage remained unchanged and the highway department was uncertain whether the rains north of Circleville in the last two days would be sufficient to boost the waters over the highway a second time.

The county engineer's office said there was approximately a foot of water over portions of the Canal road.

State highways that had been closed by flood waters and were opened Wednesday were Routes 56, just north of Route 22, and the Mackey Ford road in the northern portion of the county.

SOVIET PLEDGES AID TO CZECHS

Litvinoff Asks Powers To Discuss Plans; Three Rejected

MOSCOW, March 17 — (UP) — Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov today affirmed Russia's determination to stand by her treaty obligations to Czechoslovakia, and invited other powers to a conference to discuss practical measures to check aggressors.

The invitation to a conference did not include Germany, Italy or Japan.

In a formal statement, Litvinov said that Russia would stand by Czechoslovakia and would stand by all other obligations.

If Russia's invitation to a conference were rejected or proved fruitless, Litvinov said, the Soviet Union stood ready alone to support her obligations.

Litvinov made his statement at a press conference. American newspaper correspondents had suggested several days ago that he make clear the Russian attitude in the present crisis.

Persons close to Czechoslovak diplomats said that Czech authorities recently received definite assurance that the Soviet Union would honor its treaty of mutual assistance in event that Czechoslovakia were attacked.

THIRD COLUMBUS MAN CAUGHT IN "NUMBER" DRIVE

Ralph Smith, Columbus, alleged to be a "pickup" man in the "numbers" game, was arrested by Chief William McCrady and Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick, Thursday.

Smith posted $50 bond in Mayor W. B. Cady's court to report Friday at 9 a. m. for a hearing. Smith's arrest is the third this week in the campaign being conducted by the mayor and police against gambling. Two other Columbus men forfeited $50 bonds Wednesday.

Following issuance of a warning by Mayor Cady, Wednesday, that persons participating in any form of gambling would be arrested, it was reported one race horse bookie accepted no bets during the afternoon.

NEW CABINET TESTED

PARIS, March 17 — (UP) — The new popular front cabinet of Leon Blum faced the chamber of deputies in a critical session today for a vote of confidence on a foreign policy calling for the defense of Czechoslovakia's integrity.

NOTED SPEAKER TO CONCLUDE BIG FOOD INSTITUTE

Dr. Roy Burkhardt Appears Friday Afternoon In "Happiness" Talk

"ON TRIAL" SUCCESS

Many Prizes Distributed To Visitors

A highly entertaining and dramatic food program was presented to a capacity crowd of Circleville and Pickaway county homemakers at Memorial hall, Thursday afternoon, at the second session of the 1938 Daily-Herald-Gasco Food Institute. The playlet "On Trial" offered an entirely new method of conducting cooking events of this kind and was enthusiastically received by the large audience.

In the playlet, the range and refrigerator assumed animated roles to bring their differences before the "food" Court of Justice. The refrigerator as the plaintiff was brilliantly represented by Miss Katherine Thiele, special food lecturer of the Institute, while Miss Maxine Robertson, local home service representative of the Gas Company, ably served as attorney for the defendant — the range. The case for each side was built up by the presentation of exhibits and the preparation of food servings. All together the program was most interesting, as well as instructive.

Final Program Tomorrow

Final program of the Food Institute being sponsored by the Herald, The Gas Company and other local business firms, will be presented tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Memorial Hall. Subject (Continued on Page Nine)

MISSOURI TOWN PAYS RESPECTS TO ST. PATRICK

ST. PATRICK, Mo., March 17 — (UP) — The Kellys and Murphys and O'Shaughnessys and the rest of the 51 Irish inhabitants of this village decked themselves out in green ribbons and shamrocks today and attended high mass in honor of their own and the town's patron saint.

The inhabitants also celebrated the 101st anniversary of the founding of St. Patrick, which was settled by a group of Irish pioneers in 1837.

It is the boast of the people of St. Patrick that only three other towns in the United States are named after the Irish saint, and two of them don't really count because the names have been changed to Spanish.

They are St. Patrick, Ohio, San Patricio, Tex., and San Patricio, N. M.

Special services were held at St. Patrick's Catholic church.

The busiest person in town was Postmaster John N. Kirchner who spent the day cancelling hundreds of other pieces of mail which stamp collectors had sent here for the postmark.

St. Patrick is in the extreme northeast part of the state, in Clark county. The town is nearly isolated and the only highway connecting it with the rest of the world is Missouri 7, which joins U. S. 61.

REX MCGHEE ASKS DIVORCE AFTER 3-MONTH MARRIAGE

Suit for divorce, possession of personal property at his home in Clarkburg and on a 72-acre farm in Pickaway county, and that his wife be barred from dower in his real estate was filed in Common Pleas court in Ross county, Wednesday, by Rex McGhee, Clarkburg, against Mary Skinner McGhee.

The action charges neglect and cruelty. They were married Dec. 16, 1937 and have no children.

Several Leaders May Quit, London Hears; Post for Eden?

BY UNITED PRESS

MOSCOW: Litvinov asks powers, including United States, to confer on Measures against aggressors, and promises Russia will stand by her treaty obligations to aid Czechoslovakia if the latter is attacked.

LONDON: Revolt against government's "do nothing" spreads and possibility of a union cabinet of all parties is forecast.

PARIS: Blum government's declaration to parliament side-steps European crisis, saying merely "above all, we must parry the perils of the foreign situation."

BERLIN: Reichstag may be dissolved for election of a new chamber to include Austrian representation.

VIENNA: Von Wisener, representative of Archduke Otto, joins other prominent figures in "protective custody."

WARSAW: Poland demands prompt settlement of border dispute with Lithuania.

LONDON, March 17 — (UP) — Reports that the government might seek to form a cabinet embracing all political parties spread through parliamentary circles today.

These reports were accompanied by persistent assertions that there was another split in the cabinet regarding European policy and that the resignations of some leading members could be expected unless an agreement was reached soon.

There was extreme tension in parliamentary lobbies, due both to the urgency of the European situation and to the reports of a serious division among cabinet members on policy.

Decisions Pending

It seemed certain that the government would be called on soon to make decisions of great moment. In political quarters, it was suggested that the government would not be surprised if Germany continued her active policy in foreign affairs.

The situation here was reminiscent in many ways of July, 1914, when the government was considering the policy it should adopt.

The most specific report was that Prime Minister Chamberlain might invite the labor party to participate in the government, and it was assured that if he did so, the liberals would get representation. In the present so-called national government, "national (Continued on Page Nine)

FACTS AND FANCIES

Ice Cream Pie

Have a cold pie shell ready. Beat two egg whites and add two table-spoons powdered sugar. Fill pie shell with a pint of ice cream, which must be very hard. Cut it off in slices and place in shell, being careful not to break shell. Cover with meringue and brown quickly in hot oven. Serve immediately. Two important points are to have everything ready when ice cream is delivered and to have oven hot.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN HAROLD K. CLAYPOOL

REVENUE ACT OF 1938—Last

November a sub-committee on the Committee of Ways and Means, under the chairmanship of Representative Vinson of Kentucky, began a study of the federal tax structure. After months of study a bill was reported to the house to be considered under twelve hours of general debate. Friday after five roll call votes the house finally passed the bill and sent it to the senate. The bill attempts to remove certain taxes found to be obstructive to the free flow of business and seeks to establish a more equitable system of taxation.

FINE ARTS BUREAU—The senate committee on education and labor was informed by Gutzon Borglum and Walter Damrosch that they opposed the bill creating a Federal Bureau of Fine Arts as it would be more of a relief than an art measure. Many well known people have endorsed the bill and are heartily in favor of such a bureau. Among those expressing favorable opinion were Mary Pickford, Burgess Meredith, Jane Cowl and Lilian Gish.

BANK HOLDING COMPANIES

—The senate and house committees on banking and currency have before them companion bills regulating bank holding companies. The bills are sponsored by Senator Glass of Virginia and Rep. Steagall of Alabama. Enactment at this session is predicted by administration leaders. At the same time, the senate banking and currency committee has favorably reported a bill regulating "over the counter" operations of brokers, with federal, state and municipal securities exempt from said regulation.

HOME CONSTRUCTION UP—

A steady upturn in home financing and construction activity throughout the country since the beginning of the year especially since the signing of the amended National Housing Act on February 3rd, is shown by the records of the Federal Housing Administration. Business transacted during the week ending February 26th exceeded that of the corresponding week of last year. Week-by-week tabulation of home mortgages selected for appraisal during the past 3 years has proved to be a consistently sensitive index of residential financing and building activity.

MOTOR VEHICLES STUDIED BY ROADS MEN—

The performance of various classes of motor vehicles on the highways is to be studied by the Bureau of Public Roads in connection with the country-wide highway planning surveys being conducted in cooperation with state highway departments. Separate studies are to be made of highway capacity, vehicle performance on grades, passing distance, vehicle behavior, and driver performance. The ease with which vehicles move on roads that vary in width, alignment, and traffic volume, will be studied to determine how highways must be designed to better accommodate traffic. Vehicle performance on grades, the maximum performance of new trucks and the average performance of random trucks on the highways under various loadings and on various grades will be compared. But laboratory and field tests will be made on the test trucks. In passing-distance studies vehicles will be observed at the full range of speeds and sight distances on straight sections of road, on both level and ascending and descending grades of various percentages, and on curves.

OHIO TRIBUNAL MAY DECIDE ON MAJOR ACTIONS

Taxpayer's Suit Pending Against Refunds On
Delinquencies

CERTIFICATE ACT HIT

Move Against Ohio Liquor
Monopoly Heard

COLUMBUS, March 17 — (UP) —The state Supreme Court has a number of cases still pending before it involving the validity of recently enacted state laws that probably will be decided before the court recesses for the summer.

Chief of these is the taxpayers' suit questioning constitutionality of the Ogrin act which provides for refunds of interest and penalties on delinquent taxes paid between June 20, 1930 and Jan. 1, 1937.

Opposing counsel agree, according to papers in the case, that validation of the act would mean that county officials in Ohio would refund a total of $22,000,000 to beneficiaries under the act.

Many county officials have protested on the grounds that new taxes probably would have to be imposed to pay the refunds. The suit was brought by William A. Crotty, Cleveland. It is estimated that refunds would amount to $2,000,000 in Cuyahoga county alone.

The Common Pleas court granted an injunction against operation of the law, but the court of appeals reversed the trial court decision with one judge dissenting.

Another suit was brought by the City Loan & Savings Co., Wapakoneta, against Harry Taggart, Seneca county recorder, challenging the validity of the new title certificate law which did away with automobile bills of sales. The appeal contends the act is invalid because it confers judicial power on the registrar of motor vehicles and clerk of courts; it violates the "due process" clause of the federal constitution; and attempts to regulate interstate commerce.

Cuyahoga county has sued the state auditor and the state finance director to compel them to pay $257,270.25 in local government allocations from the sales tax, but it was indicated that this suit might be dismissed on the basis of the recent supreme court decision which sustained the Davis act empowering the auditor to withhold funds from counties which are indebted to the state unless they enter agreements to pay off debts by installments.

An appeal by Eli G. Frankenstein, Cincinnati attorney, attacking the state liquor monopoly already is under consideration by the court. Frankenstein argued against payment of the 15 percent handling charge on liquor, and the 30 percent mark-up charge.

He maintained the liquor monopoly was unconstitutional for a number of reasons, including the charge that the liquor department was invested with the rights of a private corporation which is prohibited by the state constitution.

New Ohio Law Governs Moving of Indigents

Copies of new state laws concerning the transportation of indigent persons have been issued to city, county, village and township officials by George E. Gerhardt, county prosecutor. The new laws become effective May 15. They were approved by the governor on Feb. 14.

"Any person who purposely transports, removes or brings, or purposely causes to be transported, removed, or brought, a poor or indigent person with knowledge of such poor or indigent condition into a city, township or county in this state without lawful authority, and there leaves such poor or indigent person, knowing that such city, township, or county will probably become chargeable with his support, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be fined not less than $10.00 nor more than $100, or imprisoned in the county jail not more than 30 days, or both, and shall be obligated to convey such person out of the state. Such fine shall be for the use of the poor of the city, township, or county in which the indigent person is left.

The court shall require satisfactory security from such person that he will convey the destitute person out of the state within the time fixed by the court, or will indemnify the city, township or county for all charges and expenses incurred for the support or transportation of such destitute person. If such person refuses to give security when so required the court may commit him to jail for not more than 30 days. When a public official furnishes transportation to an indigent person, it shall be done only after investigation and satisfaction that such transportation will make it possible for such person to be cared for by responsible persons; and the transportation furnished shall be to the final destination in this state or elsewhere.

"Each person shall be considered to have obtained a legal settlement in any county in this state in which he or she has continuously resided and supported himself or herself for 12 consecutive months, without relief under the provisions of law for the relief of the poor, or relief from any charitable organization or other benevolent association which investigates and keeps a record of facts relating to persons who receive or apply for relief. No adult person coming into this state and having dependents are receiving public relief, care or support at the expense of the state, or any of its civil divisions, in which such dependents reside.

Concrete pavements, built to the standards developed by highway engineers of this state, are the last word in safety. Yet they actually cost the public less than so-called "cheap" pavements. Concrete is safe because it provides a better "track" for vehicles. From your own experience you know that its even, gritty surface reduces skidding, wet weather or dry. Its freedom from bumps, ruts and chuckholes gives you better control at the wheel. Concrete's light gray color and high reflection factor helps you see better at night. Yet, with all these advantages, concrete is actually the cheapest road to have. First, because it costs less to build than other pavements of equal load-carrying capacity. Second, because concrete costs less to maintain — saves hundreds of dollars per mile, every year, compared with less enduring surfaces. Urge public officials to build your roads with safe and saving concrete.

VIENNA IS GONE

AS a mere racial and political matter, there was no reason why Germany and Austria should not be joined. They have the same language and culture and are mostly of the same race. At the end of the World War they wanted to unite, but were prevented by the peace conference. It might have been, strictly speaking, nobody else's business if Austria had been absorbed by Germany now—on her own volition, by an honest vote of her people.

But joining Nazi Germany was not the same as joining the republican Germany of 1920, and it seems clear that most of the Austrians did not really want to join. Many of them feared the Hitler rule and many of them feared racial persecution. And what they feared has come on them.

"March Supplants Viennese Waltz", said a newspaper headline on a dispatch from Vienna last Monday. "Sunday in Austria Brings Panic to Jews".

To anyone who remembers the old Vienna, that pretty well tells the story. Vienna, the gay, happy, free, tolerant home of music and science and art, a playground and meeting place for the cultured men and women of all the world, whose spirit endured even after the Versailles conference had stripped away the body of Austria, leaving little more than the head and heart—Vienna is gone. The city is now a camp for tramping troops, a billboard on which to plaster swastikas, a stepping stone for new conquest. Instead of Strauss waltzes there is the roaring "Horst Wessel".

"Sunday in Austria," said the dispatch, "brought panic for Jews, hopelessness for socialists and resignation for Catholics. Beating of Jews and plundering of Jewish shops increased. Catholics went to mass with heavy hearts. Newspaper offices were accupied by Nazis. Masses filled the streets shouting "Sieg, Heil!"

The free nations cannot hail the victory.

THE MARINE ROAD

IT is good news to thousands of tourists that the new highway to Key West, along the Florida keys from the mainland, is finished.

This is perhaps the most difficult and costly roadbuilding job ever tackled in America. The viaduct of concrete and steel stretches like a chain, nearly 100 miles long, in great spans and arches, for nearly 100 miles, ending in the beautiful little island that forms the southernmost point of the United States. This is described as "the only sea-going highway in the world." It completes the famous United States Highway No. 1, following the eastern seaboard southward from Kent in northern Maine. That makes a wonderful drive for motorists who like to follow the sea on dry land.

There will be a still more wonderful

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DEWE PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

FORD PLANNING SYSTEM

WASHINGTON—Administration is excited over a private report that Henry Ford is planning another revolution in the motor industry.

The reported idea is this: Instead of selling cars, the Ford company would rent them at a nominal "service" charge of $10, $12, or $15 a month. Included in this fee would be insurance and a certain amount of maintenance. There would be no large down payment such as now required on a purchase.

According to the word reaching Washington, the precedent-smashing motor magnate would also inaugurate an annual wage for his workers, instead of the present daily wage rate subjected to the ups and downs of the automobile market.

How seriously Ford is considering the innovation is not known. But New Dealers welcome it enthusiastically. They see it as a life-saving shot-in-the-arm to the nation's drooping economy.

They point out that such a plan would create an entirely new motor market by making cars available to millions heretofore unable to buy them. A boom in auto production would mean busy times for steel, rubber, glass and many other allied industries. Also it would enable the elimination of many current unsound business practices in the auto business, such as seasonal employment and yearly new models.

WHITNEY CRASH

Roosevelt's advisers feel that no other recent event has played into his hands more fortuitously than the Whitney crash.

The feeling against Whitney in financial circle is terrific. After all he was the man who, as head of the Stock Exchange, led the fight against Roosevelt's SEC plans for controlling investment operations. From now on, what chance will Wall Streeters have to claim that Roosevelt is disrupting confidence in business and investments?

HITLER'S STRATEGY?

In figuring out what Adolf Hitler will do next, it is wise to look back and see how he charted his course in the past. There was nothing accidental about it.

Hitler's month for action is March. It was in March, 1933, that he became complete dictator of Germany. It was in March, 1935, that he tore up the disarmament sections of the Versailles Treaty and announced plans for a powerful German Army.

Again in March, 1936, he sent German troops goose-stepping into the Rhineland. Finally in March, 1938, he made his triumphal entry in Austria.

In the first two or three of these moves, Hitler was bluffing. He could have been stopped by determined opposition. When German troops entered the Rhineland, for instance, Hitler's intimates tell how he had to have a hypodermic to steady his nerves. Also, it is now established that German commanders carried a second set of orders when they entered the Rhineland—to retreat if the French army mobilized.

One More Wedding

by HELEN WELSHIMER

COPYRIGHT

READ THIS FIRST:

Barbara Kingsley, pretty young society editor of the Martinsville Post, has just "covered" another wedding. She is tired of the routine but Peter Baxter, managing editor, sheers her fading spirit. Garry Page, New York newspaper man in town for the wedding, misses his train back and Barbara, at the train to pick up pictures, offers to drive him to the junction to catch the last train that night. They have dinner and, at the junction, run into the wedding party, including Barbara's proud cousin, Julia. A few weeks later Natalie Kendall, a close friend of Barbara's who is a New York fashion columnist, wires Barbara of an opening on a child magazine. Barbara decides to take the position and Natalie meets her upon her arrival in New York.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4

NATALIE KENDALL smiled at Barbara's impulsive question: "Natalie, do you know Garry Page?"

"Yes, not well, though," she answered. "Is he on the list of people you want to meet?"

"No, I've met him. He took me to dinner one night when he missed a train."

"Maybe we'll run across him tonight."

"Tonight? Are we going out?"

"A friend of mine, Basil Addington, is taking us to dinner and a musical. We'll do a night club or two afterwards to initiate you. Garry may be around. It's his job to see what is going on."

Barbara could almost see a small door opening into Paradise. Tonight, maybe—but she only wrinkled her nose and said: "Natalie, I feel as though I have wings! Hold me or I'll fly away with joy!"

Natalie smiled indulgently. Everything about Barbara flew upward—hair, eyes, mouth, nose. "New York won't let you fly too high, my darling! Never fear."

The orange juice was sweet and cold, the coffee ring crisp and hot. And when breakfast was finished, there was a ride up Fifth avenue, past the shops, Radio City and St. Patrick's Cathedral, to a street in the east Fifties where Natalie had her apartment. Barbara scanned the faces on the sidewalks. Some day she would know some of these people. Out there, somewhere—perhaps in the very throng at which she gazed but more probably in one of the vast white buildings—was Garry.

She brought the conversation back to him again, and Natalie talked of Garry's work.

"Is he engaged?" Barbara had not meant to ask but the question slipped out.

Natalie laughed. "No, darling, not even reported to be. He has never been talked about with any girl, come to think of it. He's a hard working young man. Don't misunderstand. The girls would rather have his violets than a wealthier man's orchids. But he just keeps the girls as friends."

She drew her brows together. "It seems to me I have seen him with someone a few times—oh, yes, Ruth Merryweather—you know, the breakfast food millions. Ruth is a sweet child."

Barbara nodded happily. So he wasn't engaged. Not even the breakfast food millions could dampen her happiness today.

Natalie's apartment was strictly modern. Chromium, white leather, and scarlet draperies made a stage set for her living room. Barbara's bedroom was done in black and silver. She felt that she had stepped into a fairy tale. Any minute, the miracles would begin. She would stay here for one week and then—well, even a room in a cheap hotel or rooming house would be all right so long as she was where where life was wept, laughed, ached, and acted!

Natalie, who went to her office in the afternoon, brought a long white box with her when she came at six o'clock. "A welcoming present," she said.

The box held a shining, silken dress of yellow with a minute cape that was little more than a ruffle for her face. There were sandals, too.

"I looked into your bag to get the size," Natalie explained.

"But you shouldn't have done that," Barbara said slowly. "It's so glorious but I can't afford it and I can't accept it." In the end she did because Natalie would have it no other way.

When she looked at herself in the full-length mirror in her bedroom she hoped that she would see Garry. She never had been beautiful, she admitted honestly, but tonight there was a radiance in her face.

"You under-estimate yourself," Natalie told her. "Darling, with your hair and eyes—well, you needn't sit alone evenings."

"You are saying silly things but I like it," Barbara answered, and went out into the night with Natalie and Basil Addington who was much older than she had expected. His hair was silvery, his graceful figure was growing portly, and there were fine lines in his face. But he was friendly and interesting.

"He's a broker," Natalie offered. "He didn't go under in '29."

The dinner was good, the music skipped along the streets, and Twenty-one, where they landed eventually, was crowded for midsummer. To Barbara the whole evening had been a preparation for that moment when she would look up to find Garry Page's bright head above the crowd. This was a magic night—anything could happen. She would see him. But he wasn't in Twenty-one and he wasn't at the El Morocco.

"Garry isn't around, I guess," Natalie offered.

"Garry?" Basil Addington queried. "Young Page, you mean?"

Barbara nodded.

"Busy, perhaps. He sails day after tomorrow, I believe."

"Sails?" For a second the music, the dancers, the room hung suspended in silence.

"To England, I saw Hadley, the producer, today. He's persuaded Garry to run over with him and do his column from there."

"What ship does he take?" Natalie asked carelessly enough. Basil did not know.

Barbara's face was calm but she was knotting the fragile lace of her handkerchief and the chicken sandwich on her plate no longer appealed to her. Why hadn't she told him she was coming? Why had she been so filled with pride? Now he would go away—oh, a month could be an eternity! She tried to tell herself that he would have had time to do nothing but say "hello" anyway but that brief contact seemed suddenly very important.

She came to a decision before she went to sleep. In the morning she would telephone to his office. If she knew that he was going to remember her while he was gone, she could put him out of her thoughts for a month. Half a dozen words in his deep voice could keep her contented. Still of this mind she went into a telephone booth the next morning, but with the nickel in her hand ready to place in the slot, she hesitated. She replaced the receiver. If she should call Garry now, in the midst of his preparations to sail, he would be gracious, but he might wonder what claim a girl he had seen for three hours one summer night could have on his time. Regardless, just three people were waiting for the booth. Barbara leaned against the wall to consider. She wouldn't do it. She would send him a note which he would find when he returned.

She knew that her decision was wise but her footsteps lagged a little when she went back to the street. She bought a gardenia from a flower vender and pinned it on the jacket of her gray linen suit. She put a dime into a street musician's cup.

The day was just as fair but her enthusiasm was lessened.

"Barbara Kingsley, grow up!" she told herself. "How can the guy call you when he thinks you're out in Martinsville? You did this yourself. Now like it!"

She had lunch at a tearoom and then decided to go up to the children's magazine and get acquainted. After all she didn't need Natalie to introduce her.

She was glad instantly that she had gone. The editor, a Mrs. Corbett, was sweet and plump and rather sentimental. She liked action stories, she said, but little children wanted fairy tales. She hoped Barbara could write some.

Mrs. Corbett explained the magazine's policy, then turned Barbara over to the art director for further instruction.

At the end of the afternoon, when Barbara went to say goodbye to Mrs. Corbett, she felt much happier. She knew she would like her work. The editor gave an apologetic laugh.

"I have a telephone message for you. It came in yesterday and I forgot to give it to you. Someone saw in the book notes of one of the papers that you were coming to us. Now where did I put it? Oh yes, here it is."

She handed Barbara a memorandum which read: "Call Garry Page. Eldorado 3-4555."

Mrs. Corbett pushed her telephone toward Barbara but she shook her head. She must call Garry some place where no one could hear. But out on the street she walked several blocks before she found a drug store with telephone booths. She beat a man to a booth and dialed Garry's number.

"Hello," he was saying.

Scientists Measure Action of Ductless Glands

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IN SPEAKING of the possible causes and treatment of arthritis a few weeks ago, I wrote that there may be a deficiency of vitamins and that concentrated vitamins might do some good; that there is seldom a case of arthritis that shows any defect of the ductless glands. Someone wrote in to ask how it is possible to know whether the ductless glands are involved or not.

In two of the ductless glands we have for a long time had methods of measurement of the activity of the glands which are quantitative. The progress we have been able to make in goiter and diabetes is due to these exact methods.

In the thyroid gland we can measure the exact amount of its activity—whether it is normal, and if subnormal the amount that it is subnormal, and if it is increased in function, the exact amount that it is increased, expressed in percentages. This can be done because the fundamental function of the thyroid gland, that of maintaining the general nutrition of the body at a certain rate of speed—the basal metabolism—can be measured in terms of the amount of oxygen used per second in relation to the body weight. Thus we can say that the thyroid is functioning 50 per cent more or 50 per cent less than normal, and so forth and so on.

Sugar Reading Gives Measure
The islet cells in the pancreas can also be measured exactly by reading the amount of the blood sugar. Inasmuch as these cells secrete a substance, insulin, which burns in the blood at any time that it is increased, and since we can measure by the most exact quantitative means the amount of sugar concentration in the blood, we have in the blood sugar an exact index of the activities of the internal glands of the pancreas.

It is probable that we are on the verge of having exact methods of determination for all of the ductless gland secretions. Work which has just been completed with an electro-spectroscope can determine the amount of crystalline secretion from the pituitary and reproductive glands by measuring the amount of this secretion in the blood. Thus from an examination of the blood, it is possible to tell the exact stage in the cycle that any woman is in, and the maturation and movement of the ovum can be determined and predicted with great exactness.

We, of course, have other means of determining the activity of these glands, but they are, frankly, much cruder. It is always permissible to try giving some of the glandular products to see whether improvement occurs and if it does not, we must assume there is no change in function of the glands. We can catalogue also quite well the symptoms which are produced by poor function of the glands, but this method is not quantitative and is subject to some error.

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a near-summer day, one that had all the fishermen ga-ga, every stream and pond being muddy. But their time is coming, and not so far off, either. Everywhere signs of new life with many lawns already as green as they will be in June. Recalled a recent conversation with Bob Brehmer. Then did learn that tulip buds contain the full flower, leaves and all. Everything there except the color. Also that magnolia buds are formed in the Fall ready to burst into bloom as soon as the weather is right. And if the buds are cut open, even in the coldest months of the year, that the entire flower may be found there. That's strange, I think, and interesting.

About the ville saw nothing except smiles, everyone impressed and delighted by the fine Spring day. Learned that the City Loan is to move into the room vacated by the Fashion store and that a new front will be installed and numerous other improvements made. And that Sievert is to occupy the room now used by City Loan. Guy Pettit will expand his Tire and Battery shop to include the room now occupied by Sievert. City Loan was not alone in seeking the Fashion room. A widely known groceryman sought to establish a modern store there and several other merchants from outside the ville were in the bidding.

Answered many questions regarding Paul Carruthers, injured in an automobile accident. Made a trip to Zanesville and found the advertising man in a hospital, but on the verge of leaving. Paul's father died late Sunday night and the young man had no sleep during the night. He drove to Circleville in the morning, spent the day without sleep and started for his home near Cambridge early the evening. "I was very sleepy as I passed through Zanesville," he said. "Then I came to in this hospital." Paul learned a lesson there and in his experience is a moral for others. Don't drive a car when sleepy.

Received a call from Bryan Custer, the deputy United States marshal, and a summons to appear before the federal grand jury in Cleveland late in the month. Something about an overly ambitious finance company that at one time attempted to operate in these parts, and about which the scrivener knows only by hearsay.

Everybody talking about the situation in Europe and wondering whether there will be war. I think not, not that France, England and Russia have called Hitler's bluff. Germany will settle down for a time until she feels once more she and Italy can lick the world. Then the same thing will happen that happened before.

Cooking School Attracts 900 to Initial Session

Many Gay, New Styles Seen At Institute

By Lyall Cryder

Were you at Cooking school Wednesday afternoon? About 900 other women were. Seldom is a group of such size assembled with but a single thought, in this case, new ideas in food.

Continuing from 12:15 o'clock when the first ones found their seats until 2 o'clock when the demonstration began, a steady stream of women from all walks of life wended their way to Memorial Hall. From all parts of the county they came, old housewives and young and many sweet young girls with only the promise assiduated by rings still consciously worn on all important fingers. Some had the "show me" attitude, sure that their ways were best. Others, and many of the best cooks of the community were in this class anxious to gain knowledge of improved methods of food preparation and add new recipes to their treasured store.

The day was perfect! Spring at its best. So, some of the ladies had their new outfits on for the first time, (strange how some are always ready for the first warm days) and others, well they just had to swelter in their Winter things and cast sheep's eyes at the gay new styles. From the preview of style, Wednesday, it would seem that suits are the thing, until the many nifty top coats are seen. And bright colors, well, the flowers will surely have to look to their laurels this Spring or the clothes will put them to shame.

In the hall, from staid matron to carefree maid, rare interest marked every moment of the two-hour school periods. Many foods had been partly prepared, but as each dish was displayed, each step was explained in detail. To see the great crowd so intent on the words of the demonstrator, and as she mentioned variations in the recipes as printed on the sheets, to see each leaf come up and the pencils jot down notes, was a revelation of the sincerity of the women.

When prizes were awarded, hope and indifference showed about equally on the faces of the crowd. But when a name was called, that was a different story, surprise, almost unbelief and joy mingled as each gift was claimed.

On dispersing, friend talked with friend, some thinking the time was too short, all agreeing that this was the best school of them all, and making plans for the next day. Fortunate ones proudly displayed their prizes, laughing, visiting, planning to try new dishes, comparing notes on the success and quickness with which the food was prepared, such a crowd of enthusiasts that if all plans for cooking are carried out, the food aroma which will rise from the kitchens of the county for the next weeks will be as sweet as the nectar of the Gods.

American Legion Auxiliary
The American Legion Auxiliary offered its community service program, Wednesday evening, in the Post room of Memorial Hall.

Edward Turner, former attorney general, who returned to the United States in September after a world cruise, delighted his audience.

ence with an informal talk on "Russia."

The talk proved most interesting because of the fact that the information contained first hand impressions, and dealt with things most people are curious to know and never find in reports sent out in regular channels from Russia.

Going back to about the middle of the 19th century, Mr. Turner traced the origin of the Communist party and its rise in power, the real background being the teachings of Karl Marx. He told of the Communist manifestos and of the denunciation of God and the church, of the destruction of family life. He told his story of the Russian revolution, telling of the seizing of the government by Lenin and how he held it for 20 years. He said that the farms are held collectively, all are large, as there are but few small farm owners left. Lenin gave Russia the new economic plan, but confusion seized on the land because the capitalists and the men capable of running factories were either put to death or driven from the country.

Mr. Turner also told of the difficulty encountered in entering the country, some 33 on his boat being refused permission for no stated reason.

He continued with the statement that the Russians are filled with fear and are suspicious of everyone. The public buildings are dilapidated in Leningrad. Everywhere women are seen working at the most menial tasks side by side with men. There are only a few stores and these are government-owned, and in the center of the large cities. He mentioned that a very poor pair of shoes sold for $20 in Russia and that the average wage was about $50 a month.

The thing he spoke of as impressing him most was the fact of the preservation of the art treasures of the country. In the Winter Palace at Neva, he said there are more than two miles of corridors where paintings, tapestries, sculptures, gold and silver art objects and mosaics are displayed.

He spoke of Rasputin and told how he was accepted by the royal family by attempting to bring health to an afflicted son.

Mr. Turner told of the difficulty encountered in getting food, and he spoke of vodka, the national drink, saying that it "would make gasoline taste sweet".

There are practically no cows in the country, goat milk being used. He stated that Moscow is the fastest-growing city in the world, having one of the finest subways in the world, for no apparent reason as it goes no place.

In conclusion he said that there is no happiness in Russia and that the article, "He who eats, shall work," is incorporated in the constitution. Leningrad is rapidly being made into a fort and foreigners are being barred, he said. He declared that "the finest trip he had on the cruise was coming back home."

Papyrus Club

The regular meeting of the Papyrus club will be held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. C. Watts, E. Main street.

Pickaway P.T.A.

The teachers of the school were in charge of the program when Pickaway Parent-Teacher association met Wednesday evening in the auditorium.

E. H. Althaus led the devotions. Mrs. Ralph Boggs, president of the society, appointed the nominating committee for the year, during the short business hour. The members include Mrs. Fairy Aldire, Mrs. Ralph May and Joe Anderson. Mrs. Boggs recited a poem, "Our Teachers", before turning the meeting over to the program committee.

Mr. Althaus, Carl S. Burger, Carol M. VanZant, and John Shaffer were members of a quartet which sang several numbers. Myron T. Johnson then directed a community sing. Several amusing selections were sung by the quartet and a showing of motion pictures closed the program.

Sixty-two members and visitors enjoyed the pleasant evening. The next meeting will include a basket supper, the date to be announced later.

Wedding Anniversary Observed

The afternoon bridge club of which Mrs. R. C. McAllister is a member, together with their husbands, gathered at the McAllister home Wednesday evening, the occasion observing the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. McAllister. A pot luck dinner was served at 7 o'clock and the evening hours were passed in games of various kinds.

Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. McAllister and son, Bobby. Mr. and Mrs. Luther Bower, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Cress, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terhune, Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Montgomery, and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Leist.

Bridge Party

Mrs. Harold Pontius, Walnut street, entertained her bridge club and a few extra guests at a bridge party recently honoring Mr. Pontius on his birthday anniversary. The prizes in cards went to Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Luckart of the club, and Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Murrette of the guests. Lunch was served at the tables.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Counts, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Murrette, Mr.

STYLE WHIMISIES

Wide belt effects are noted on bloused coats for spring wear.

Riding jackets and matching vests in plaid or checked cottons are spring favorites.

Velvet trims are found on many new spring coats with 1900 details.

Navy, of course, is the favorite color selection for spring, and black is popular, too, but there is still quite a demand for gray.

Gay colors, like French blue, rose, burnt oak, etc., are being used for smart little jackets and dresses for the golf courses.

Something different are the short bolero backs to jackets with waistcoat fronts.

Philadelphia Will Invite Roosevelt To Speak Next June 21

PROGRESS TO BE SHOWN

Naval, Air and Military Show Arranged

PHILADELPHIA, March 17—(UP)—President Roosevelt will be asked to come here June 21 to lead the nation in celebration of the 150th anniversary of ratification of the United States Constitution.

The Pennsylvania Constitution Commemoration Committee announced that Mr. Roosevelt would be invited to address what is expected to be the largest outdoor audience ever assembled in the nation. The address would be in Municipal Stadium, which seats 102,000 in the stands, while thousands more can be accommodated by placing benches on the field.

The celebration will open June 17, according to Albert M. Greenfield, chairman of the committee which is co-operating with the U. S. Constitution Sesquicentennial Commission.

"Good Neighbor Day," with foreign warships and U. S. navy vessels maneuvering on the Delaware river, will open the celebration, under tentative plans.

June 18 will feature a "Cavalcade of Progress," a pageant of American business during 150 years of constitutional government; "Liberty Day," which falls on Sunday, June 19, will be set aside as a day of worship and historical pilgrimages, followed by "Youth Day," with a program for school children emphasizing the importance of the constitution to them.

Naval, air and military demonstrations are scheduled for Ratification Day, June 21, prior to the celebration at Municipal Stadium.

STATES EASING PROPERTY LEVY ON MOTOR CARS

WASHINGTON (UP)—Taxation of automobiles under the general property tax laws is decreasing, according to a survey of the National Association of Assessing Officers.

Only twenty-three states and the District of Columbia still impose general property taxes on automobiles. Seventeen states ordinarily exempt automobiles from general or special property tax, while seven states have departed substantially from the general property tax but retain two of its features—local assessment and the ad valorem base.

States in the latter group usually establish valuation by statutory formulae based on list prices. These taxes are special property taxes, although they may be called "excise taxes," "permit fees" or "registration fees." Included in this group are California, Colorado, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, Wyoming and Washington.

States which collect only registration taxes from automobiles are Delaware, Florida, Idaho, New

St. Patrick's Party

What makes a party "tick"? You know as you plan your party that your first consideration is congenial guests, a good theme for your party comes next, and then you plan for favors, food and amusement to keep the crowd happy.

Choice of friendly folk is up to you. St. Patrick's day comes along with an entertaining theme, and we'll give you some suggestions for the table. Here's your party:

Go "Top Hat" with your centerpiece of the tall Irish hat that you can make yourself. If it is hollow, as a real hat should be, it can conceal the cake or cookies you serve for dessert.

Each guest may have a favor of a St. Patrick's hat of his own. Make it of a thin butter wafer for the brim, with a duffy marshmallow for the crown. They will stick together if you moisten the marshmallow. Make a hat band of narrow green ribbon and insert a green shamrock in the band. The hat may hold a place card and direct the guest to their places at the table.

A St. Patrick's pipe is another clever decoration, easily made for a favor. Snip out a hollow in a marshmallow for the pipe bowl and make a hole in the side of the bowl near the bottom for the stem, with a moistened toothpick or needle. Cut a green cellophane straw in half and use one half for the stem. Insert the straw in the hole made by the moistened toothpick. Dust the bowl with cornstarch and fill with small salted peanuts. Tie a tiny green ribbon around the bowl near the top for decoration. The finished pipe is a nut cup as well as pipe.

For the sandwiches you may cut fancy shapes symbolic of the St. Patrick's day. Shamrocks, harps, and many other shapes should fill the sandwich plate. A sandwich loaf would be quite appropriate using a green tinted cream cheese for frosting. Fillings between the white bread might be green pickle relish, chopped olives and nuts, or green gage plums drained of juice and spread between bread which has been spread with thin layers of softened cream cheese.

Any fillings you like may be used in the loaf, regardless of the color scheme if you frost the outside of the loaf with the tinted cheese.

MICHIGAN TRIES 'SOLITARY' BAN AT ONE PRISON

JACKSON, Mich. (UP)—Solitary confinement at Southern Michigan state prison here has been abandoned while older guards wonder what will be done with the almost-new five-story "solitary block" in the prison inclosure.

These "solitary" cells, until recently used in punishment even in minor fractions, were 5 by 8 feet, furnished only with a wooden slab for a bed.

Two steel doors, one with a panel for sliding food to the prisoner and another of curved steel grill-work, could be adjusted to make it impossible for the inmate to sit. He had to stand, staring straight ahead.

Explaining that men locked in such a cell became depressive, Deputy Warden James L. Ryan said their use had been discontinued.

"No one could remain in this type cell long and not have his mind affected," Dr. David Phillips, prison psychiatrist, said. "It was from cells like these that 'stir bugs' came."

Instead of being placed in "solitary," offenders now are denied privileges and taken before the Behavior Clinic. They are studied by psychiatrists. Those who are sane and persist in violations are sent to Marquette prison.

One can string beans, cut fine; one can mushroom soup, two slices bacon, cut fine; one cup hamburger, bread crumbs. Place beans in baking dish and add soup. Mix bacon and hamburger and spread over top, strewn bread crumbs over all. Bake half an hour. Serve with baking powder biscuits.

This dish was devised for an unexpected guest recently and has now become the family's favorite luncheon dish.

'Deal' Denied

Cleveland during a hearing on Gov. Martin L. Davey's perjury charge against Lee Bradley, his asserted former contact man, L. L. Tremper, above, General Motors official, denied that he had entered into a "deal" to contribute $25,000 to the Ohio governor's campaign in exchange for business favors. The charge had been made by Bradley, former Davey salesman, before a state senate investigating committee. Governor Davey himself took the stand to deny under oath that he had discussed with Tremper such a "deal".

FAR EAST WAR CURBS SHIPPING OF NEWSPRINT

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UP)—British Columbia's shipments of pulp and newsprint to China have been paralyzed by credit difficulties caused by war conditions in relatively small quantities it was said here.

British Columbia newsprint manufacturers were able to reach the China market by shipping to Hongkong for trans-shipment to Canton, for several months, but blockading of the latter port by Japanese warships eliminated that outlet.

Merchants Exchange figures for pulp and paper from British Columbia showed gains to the United States, with losses to Australia, China and Japan.

Australia took 18,810 tons in 1937, and 42,876 in 1936; China took 1,651 tons in 1937 and 5,084 in 1936; Japan, 83,764 tons in 1937 and 131,795 in 1936. United States purchases totaled 205,981 in 1937 and 175,861 tons in 1936.

Is This the Reason You Are Constipated?

If you're wondering why your bowels don't work right—stop and think about what you eat. Bread, meat, eggs and potatoes. All good nourishing foods—but all concentrated, lacking in "bulk." And you need "bulk." Some food that forms a soft, spongy mass in the bowels—helps them move.

If it's this lack of "bulk" that's causing your constipation, Kellogg's All-Bran is just what you need. It soaks up water and softens like a sponge. And this soft mass helps your bowels move. In addition, All-Bran gives you Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B<sub>1</sub>. Eat this crisp crunchy cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and enjoy happier days. All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

JURY CONDEMNS KILLER OF TWO TO DIE IN CHAIR

John H. Seadlund, 27, Asks
New Magazine After Hearing Verdict

LAUGHS AT DECISION

Widow Of Kidnaped Man
Pleased By Finding

CHICAGO, March 17 — (UP) — John Henry Seadlund, 27, asked his keepers for some new magazines today intending to pass the time pleasantly until he is electrocuted for the kidnaping of Charles S. Ross.

He was sentenced to die last night by a federal court jury. He snickered when Federal Judge John P. Barnes ordered a hearing for Saturday on a motion for a new trial.

"They'll put me in the chair, but I don't give a damn," Seadlund said.

He is slim, curly-haired and boyish-appearing. He kidnaped Ross, 72, a well-to-do manufacturer of greeting cards, Sept. 25 while Ross and his former secretary, Miss Florence Frehage, were returning to Chicago from a dinner party at Sycamore, Ill. A Kentuckian, James Atwood Gray, was his accomplice.

Captured Jan. 14

After collecting $50,000 ransom from Ross' wife, Seadlund killed both Ross and Gray, then fled. Bodies of the victims were recovered from a lonely grave near Spooner, Wis., by G-men who trailed Seadlund twice across the country, capturing him Jan. 14 at the Santa Anita race track in California.

He pleaded guilty to kidnaping under the Lindbergh law which provides that a jury must decide penalties.

He had maintained his accustomed impassive attitude when, as the only defense witness, he told his version of the crime.

He shot both Ross and Gray, he said, because he believed they had been fatally injured in a fight and he "wanted to make sure they were dead."

When the case was given to the jury, Seadlund said to a guard: "If I was on the jury I'd convict myself."

Neither Mrs. Ross nor Miss Frehage were in the courtroom when the verdict was returned.

"It is as it should be," Mrs. Ross said when informed of its contents. Federal agents revealed that she will get back approximately $45,000 of the ransom money. About $14,500 was found on Seadlund when he was captured, and $30,000 was uncovered in a hideaway in Minnesota.

Since council's regular meeting is set for 7:30 o'clock, members decided to vote on no legislation before the proper time. They adjourned for one hour to attend the relief meeting then returned to finish their session. It lasted until about 10 p. m.

Miss Josephine Justus Of Lancaster Held For Jury
Investigation

PERJURY COUNT FILED

Defendant Is Prominent In Democratic Politics

A grand jury investigation of perjury charges against Miss Josephine Justus of Lancaster, Fairfield county old age pension administrator, has been ordered by Common Pleas Judge Frank Acton.

Miss Justus is widely known in Circleville and Pickaway county. She is Democratic state central committeewoman for the 11th Ohio congressional district, which includes Pickaway, Ross, Hocking, Perry and Fairfield counties. Miss Justus has appeared in Circleville many times as a speaker and during political campaigns.

A 30-day leave of absence from her position was announced after Judge Acton ordered her held for grand jury investigation.

Miss Justus was bound over to the jury on the charge in connection with an application on which her father, George Justus, obtained a state pension before she became head of the county office. She described the charge as "unwarranted".

Ralph Moore, a district representative, was placed in charge of the Fairfield county office.

William D. Fink, who filed the charge, accused Miss Justus of falsifying statements relating to financial responsibility of relatives. She denied the charge and asserted Fink was a disgruntled former pensioner.

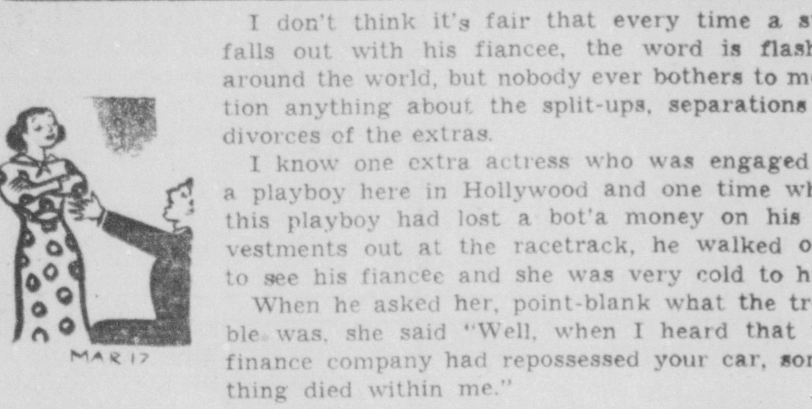

Miss Justus, was named old age pension administrator for Fairfield county late in 1935, succeeding Victor Runkle.

Miss Justus' appointment grew out of a controversy between Henry J. Berroddin, state director and the board of county commissioners.

Berroddin charged the commissioners would not make a recommendation for the post after the examination had been held. The commissioners recommended Fred Woodcock, but Berroddin refused to make the appointment.

TIMBER SAVING
URGED IN SOUTH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Some private lumber interests are menacing the prosperity of the South, F. A. Silcox, chief of the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture, has charged.

With 60 percent of Dixieland still in forest growth, the future of the South depends in a large part upon how its forest lands are managed, Silcox said.

"If its power to produce successive forest crops is restored, this forest land can be one of the region's greatest sources of prosperity," he said. "But if exploitation and abuse are continued, it may become a graveyard for a prosperity that might have been."

Demand Heavy for Years

The demands upon the South for lumber has been heavy. Nearly three-fifths of its timber is now second growth, Silcox said. Ninety-five percent of the nation's yellow pine lumber comes from the South.

The production of yellow pine increased from 3,000,000,000 feet in 1932 to 7,000,000,000 in 1936, Silcox said. This heavy cutting, he said, has reduced forest stockings in the South to below normal.

Recently increasing use of pine in making paper has doubled the demands for pulpwood, he said. Numerous pulp mills have moved to the South in recent years.

"Superimposing new pulp and paper plants upon the thousands of lumber and other forest industries on Winfred Miksell who was approved by the commissioners. Berroddin then named Runkle as provisional administrator.

Another examination was held, out of which grew the appointment of Miss Justus in 1935.

FLEET ENLISTS
BUSHMEN'S AID

SYDNEY (UP) — Missionaries stationed at lonely outposts along the Arnhem section of the North Australian coast are co-operating with the Australian navy in the defense of that part of the coast.

Native smoke signals will be used for transmission of important messages.

The missionaries at the Methodist mission stationed at Goulburn Island, Milingimbi and Yirrakala, have been issued special code books and provided with detailed instructions of actions to be taken should a national emergency occur.

Delivered Under Seal

When the mission lugger, St. Nicholas, left Darwin recently its master was entrusted with three sealed envelopes from the Navy Board, which he was instructed to deliver personally to the missionaries to whom they were addressed.

These bulky envelopes contained code books and instructions dealing with the establishment of this new coast watch service, plans for the inauguration of which have been under consideration for some time.

Each of the three mission stations is equipped with "pedal" wireless sets, power which is supplied by aborigines pedaling an apparatus on the push bicycle principle. One of the sets at Milingimbi is powerful enough to communicate with Darwin if required.

Clearing House for News

If the intention of enlisting the co-operation of the more untamed aborigines for this particular region is realized, the mission stations will become the clearing houses for news relayed along the desolate coastline by means of aboriginal smoke signals—the so-called "bush telegraph" system which has amazed white men since they first came into contact with it. By means of these smoke signals, aborigines send messages long distances with remarkable rapidity.

The Methodist missions are the only permanent white settlements along the Arnhem coast, and supplies are sent to them at three-month or six-month intervals. About 400 nomadic natives regularly use the missions as their headquarters.

NEW ENGLAND FIRST ON LIST OF NOTABLES

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UP)—A study of geographical distribution of great Americans by Prof. S. S. Visser, geographer of the University of Indiana, revealed that New England states predominate in the production of notables.

Twice as many "greats" were produced in New England compared to the Middle Atlantic or North Central states, and nearly three times as many as the Pacific states, and about six times as many as the South Central states, Visser found.

Only those designated as not-bles by authorities were studied by Visser.

He discovered that the southward decline in the yield of "greats" prevailed not only among the several general groups of states, but also, with very few exceptions among the individual states. The chief exception is Massachusetts, which surpassed the more northern New England states.

Visser also found that states which produce few scientists also produce few artists or administrators, and vice versa.

He also discovered that there has been a progressive decline, at least since about 1860, in the pre-eminence of New England in the production of notables in proportion to population, and a lesser decline for New York and other seaboard states. In contrast, there has been a relative increase in the North Central states and, to a lesser degree, in the Western states.

No star performer at a cooking school or in the kitchen receives more enthusiastic praise than does the Servel Electrolux gas refrigerator. Its many exclusive advantages place it in a class by itself as a kitchen performer. Its principle of operation is entirely different. A tiny gas flame circulates the refrigerant—replacing all moving parts in its freezing system. Naturally then, its operation is completely and permanently silent, and it lasts years longer because there is nothing to wear out.

Economy of operation, too, is another outstanding feature of the gas refrigerator. Results of actual surveys made among Servel Electrolux owners prove conclusively that it costs an average of less than 2 cents a day to operate.

See the beautiful new Servel Electrolux in action at the 1938 Gasco Food Institute. Note its many features as demonstrated. Then investigate the gas refrigerator further at The Gas Company. You, too, will be calling it the "Silent Star" of the modern kitchen.

TINY BULL CALF DRAWS INTEREST TO OGEMA, MINN.

OGEMA, Minn., March 17 — (UP)—A bull calf no larger than some human babies his own age today cuddled contentedly in a home-made incubator behind the kitchen stove of C. W. Putbreze, Ogema farmer and took grade "A" milk through a rubber nipple.

Named Paul Bunyan in honor of the legendary strong-man lumberjack of the north woods, the calf is normal in every respect — except size. Weighing only five pounds at birth March 1, he already has gained 11, and Farmer Putbreze confidently predicted he'll grow into a big, strong bull. A normal calf weighs from 40 to 60 pounds at birth. There's no logical explanation for Paul's diminutive proportions. His mother is seven years old, and had previously given birth to two other calves of normal size and weight. Farmer Putbreze doesn't believe Paul was born prematurely.

His hooves are about the size of the little finger nail of a man — but he can stand and walk alone normally. He runs all over the kitchen between meals and naps now.

A wooden box two feet square, lined with blankets, is his incubator. The heat from the stove provides warmth.

The village of Ogema, known as the home of bovine oddities since a cow gave birth to triplets a year ago, is proud of Paul. Hundreds have flocked to the farm to see him.

James Greenfield, a Middletown, O., truck driver, was wounded slightly by shotgun slugs which just missed George W. Post for Eden

One newspaper reported that Winston Churchill, conservative leader; Maj. WARSAW, March 17—(UP)—The government has taken "suitable steps" in connection with a border dispute with Lithuania. It was announced officially today. Col. Josef Beck, foreign minister, will make a statement on the situation at the first meeting of the senate.

It was announced that the senate would meet at noon next Tuesday, March 22, and hope was expressed that before then Lithuania would have made some concrete proposals.

Officials, commenting on the communiqué, said that the government could not accept a Lithuanian proposal to discuss the frontier dispute—the result of a clash of border guards—either at Riga, Latvia, or Tallinn, Estonia.

Diplomacy Needed

Normal diplomatic procedure, it was argued, was the only way to settle the incident.

(Poland and Lithuania have no diplomatic relations as the result of their territorial disagreements. Lithuania claims the Vilna area, which Poland occupies and whose present frontier the great powers have recognized.)

The general feeling here seemed to be that the situation which has existed for nearly 20 years, as part of which there has been no direct communication between Warsaw and Kaunas (Kovno), with no international roads and no direct mail service, must be changed.

"The ambassadors and other diplomats are received with the highest honors."

"The members of the jury are kept away from other people, for fear they might learn something."

PUBLISHER GOES TO JOURNALISM SCHOOL IN IOWA

AMES, Iowa (UP)—Publisher of a successful weekly newspaper for five years, Victor Bluedorn, 20, is attending Iowa State college to study journalism.

Bluedorn's paper is the Scott County Tribune, circulation 4,000. He developed it from an advertising paper which he started with $25 capital. Three years ago the youth purchased a newspaper plant from a bankrupt weekly, moved the machinery to Walcott and had a plant of his own.

A subscription contest gave him an assured circulation and won for the newspaper the designation of one of the county's official publications.

While Bluedorn is at college, his newspaper is being managed by an associate editor, 23; a managing editor 21; a business manager, 21; and an advertising manager, 45.

The Tribune stresses local and farm news.

"If some farmer builds a new barn or buys a team of horses, that's news and we hit it," Bluedorn said.

Victor intends to follow the newspaper business after graduation.

HAPSBURG AGENT HELD; DUKE ASKS GOODS REMOVED

VIENNA, March 17—(UP)—The wave of suicides caused by the advent of the Nazi regime continued today with the self-destruction of two prominent old Baumgartner and Prof. Bela Jewish physicians, Prof. Arn-Hirtz.

VIENNA, March 17—(UP)—Baron Friedrich Ritter Von Wiesner, Austrian monarchist leader and personal representative of Archduke Otto Von Hapsburg, pretender to the throne, has been placed in protective custody, it was understood today.

Wiesner, 67, long a judge in the pre-war monarchical government, served in the foreign office during the World War and became leader of the monarchist cause after the war.

In protective custody, his status is the same as that of Wilhelm Miklas, last formally constituted president of the Austrian republic, and Kurt Schuschnigg, who was forced to resign as chancellor when the Nazis took power.

It was understood that the Duke of Windsor had ordered removed to France personal belongings which he left at Enzesfeld castle, near Vienna, where he spent the lonely months before his marriage to the present Duchess of Windsor. It was reported that the duke had intended visiting Enzesfeld this Spring.

A dispatch from Linz said that nearly all Jewish shops there had been closed and that Nazi storm troops were stationed in front of those which remained open, bearing signs which read "It is Forbidden to Buy Here on Penalty of Arrest."

THREE JAP AIRMEN LOST

SCOUT CUBBING GAINS SUPPORT AT CONFERENCE

19 Prospective Members At Wednesday Evening Confab In M. E. Church

OBJECTIVES DISCUSSED

Another Meeting Scheduled For Next Week

Nineteen prospective Cubs, Circleville boys of pre-Scout age, with their interesting parents attended the first of a series of three meetings, Wednesday, designed to inform and train fathers and mothers in Cubbing, the younger boy program of the Boy Scouts of America. The meeting was held in the Methodist church parlors.

Mrs. Barton Deming, chairman of the temporary Pack committee, presided at the meeting in which more than 25 fathers and mothers participated. Howard Kautz, local field scout executive, presented an explanation of Cubbing and how it is used by parents as a character influencing activity.

Committee members in addition to Mrs. Deming are Mrs. Clark Will and Mrs. Guy Pettit. They expressed satisfaction with the splendid interest evidenced at the meeting and declared that the enthusiasm aroused with the project should result in one of the finest Packs in the local scout council which is comprised of eight central Ohio counties.

The second parents' meeting will be held next Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the M. E. church. The "den," an integral part of Cubbing, will be discussed and Boy Scouts from Troop 107, who will act as "den chiefs," will be present.

Parents must attend at least two of the three training sessions to make their sons eligible for charter membership in the organization.

NEW HAMPSHIRE BABY BOY OF 2 WRITES RECORD IS 'SEEING EYE' OF 1774 BATTLE FOR BLIND MAN

CONCORD, N. H.—(UP)—The Boston Tea Party, Paul Revere's midnight ride and the "shot heard 'round the world" did not mark the beginning of the American Revolution, according to the New Hampshire Guide Book (Houghton Mifflin), compiled by WPA writers who challenge long accepted historical facts.

The Granite state scribes contend the Boston Tea Party, cited by historians as marking the first resistance by war-painted and Indian-costumed colonists to British taxes, occurred years after a similar episode at Exeter, N. H.

In the "mass tree riot of 1734," the book relates, "a group of Exeter colonials dressed as Indians dragged the men" sent by the Crown's surveyor-general "from their beds in Samuel Gilman's tavern and hustled them out with threats and flows."

New Hampshire colonists again resisted English taxes in 1782, the book contends, when the Royal Governor's marshal returned home empty-handed after being informed by "leading women of Exeter that a 'red-hot spit and scalding water' were ready for him."

Though apparently unable to duplicate or overshadow Paul Revere's nocturnal warning of April 19, 1775, of the approach of the British, the guide book avers the Battle of Lexington and Concord (Mass.) was not the first armed resistance to Great Britain.

"The first armed resistance in New Hampshire to Great Britain occurred on Dec. 14, 1774, when a small party captured Fort William and Mary in Newcastle, and removed the powder and guns to Durham," says the guide book.

New printed cotton housecoats sometimes have slippers to match.

JACKSON, O. (UP)—Two-year-old Ronald Earl Rhea has taken over the job of being the "seeing eye" of Clarence C. Shaffer, 55, blind friend of the Rhea family. "Ronnie" is the fifth child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rhea to serve the blind man in guiding him about the streets of this little southern Ohio village.

Although Ronnie's vocabulary is limited and sometimes not quite understandable, the few words he knows are sufficient to get Shaffer to his destinations safely.

The child says "Sheen" when the pair comes to a crossing and an automobile is approaching, and the blind man halts.

When the "seeing eye" thinks it is safe to continue, he says "Doe." When it is necessary for Shaffer to stoop over, as getting in or out of an automobile, the youngster says "Duck," and Shaffer does just that.

Shaffer, who resides with his mother, Mrs. George Shaffer, has been blind for 21 years. For 19 years after losing his sight he manufactured and sold brooms. Recently his physician advised him to give up the work.

As he did with the other Rhea children, Dale, Kathleen, Bobby and Jackie Dean, Ronnie's predecessors in the "seeing eye" work, Shaffer started the little boy's training when he was 4 months old. He then carried the baby in his arms on his daily walks.

VICTORIA, B. C. March 17—(UP)—A message from the S. S. Queen Adelaide, apparently safely in the shelter of Cape Beale, today reported that no assistance was needed despite a disabled steering gear that nearly resulted in her becoming a victim of a howling easterly gale.

CITY RENOWNED FOR ASTRONOMY

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—This city always has been the home of numerous star-gazers, and many significant developments in astronomy have occurred here, according to the Franklin Institute Almanac for 1938.

The first astronomical observatory in the United States was built by David Rittenhouse, professor of astronomy at the University of Pennsylvania, later vice provost, and first director of the U. S. Mint here.

In 1820 an observatory was established by William H. O. Riggs to supply the correct time to mariners who wished to check their chronometers. A course in astronomy was a feature of the Central High School when it was opened in 1837.

The University of Pennsylvania's Flower Observatory at Highland Park is one of the international centers for the study of meteors, and important work also has been done there in the study of binary or double stars. Other observatories are maintained by Haverford and Swarthmore colleges.

In suburban Wynnewood is situated the Cook Observatory, believed the finest private astronomical establishment of its type in the world. Here are carried on researches in astronomical photography, determination of stellar motions and daily studies of the sun. Dr. Gustavus Wynne Cook, observatory director, was sponsor of the Franklin Institute's eclipse expeditions of 1932 and 1937.

Another private observatory is that of H. C. Gibson at Jenkintown.

Classes for amateurs in telescope making are held in a special section of the Institute, where precision telescope building at small cost is taught.

The Fels Planetarium has served as a means of introducing the stars and constellations to hundreds of thousands of Philadelphians and visitors. The instrument reproduces the stars as they are seen at any time in the past, present and future, and as they would appear from any place on earth.

REVIVAL CONTINUING AT COMMERCIAL POINT M. E.

U.; Sunday, March 20, high school and teachers; Wednesday, March 23, Grange; Thursday, March 24, Parent-Teachers Assn.; Sunday, March 27, Men's night; Thursday, March 31, Philathea class, and Sunday, April 3, closing services.

WEST'S TIFF WITH SECRETARY ICKES BRINGS RISE TO QUERY: "WHAT OF POLITICAL FUTURE?"

Excursion of Former Denison Professor
To Ohio Studied; Many Jobs Available

COLUMBUS, March 17.—(UP)—What does the future hold for "Charlie" West, 43-year-old ex-consular officer, college professor and political man of all work who went from a classroom lecture platform via Congress into the sanctum of the New Deal?

This question has been asked frequently in the state capital where West, a former Denison University political science professor, is well known, during the weeks intervening since his tiff with his immediate boss in Washington, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Charles West

Conflicting reports immediately began drifting back from Washington as to the probable aftermath of the feud between Ickes and his under-secretary, who spent most of his time "lobbying" for the President on Capitol Hill.

West's name has not been mentioned so prominently as the President "liaison" officer with Congress recently, but on the other hand, several days ago he made what appeared to be a political scouting trip out to Ohio to look into the state Democratic situation.

May Get O. S. U.

At that time gossip also started that he was a possible candidate for appointment to the presidency of Ohio State university to succeed President George W. Rightmire, who is expected to retire within the year. There was no confirmation of the rumor, and equally extreme ones have been previously circulated, such as that which credited Governor Davey with university presidential aspirations, which brought a prompt denial.

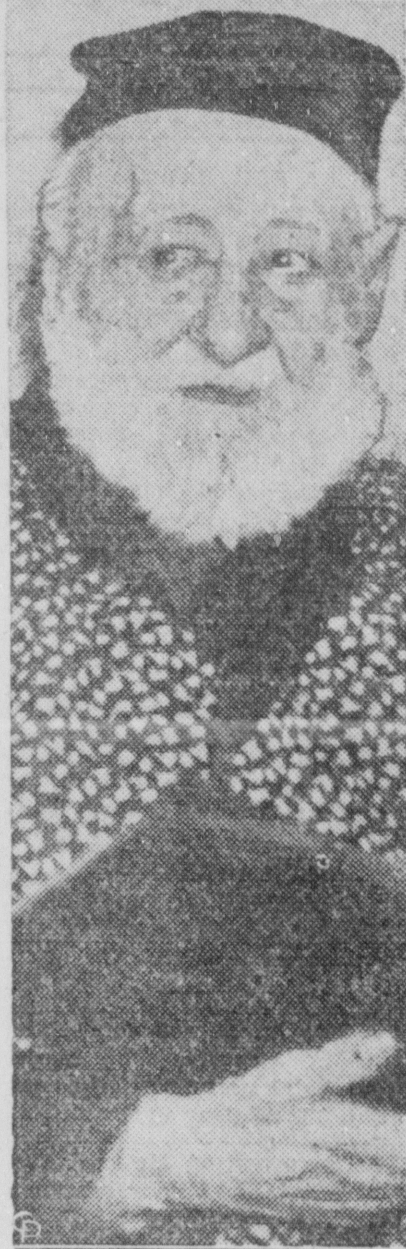

Following the Ickes scrape widely-publicized reports indicated that West was under consideration for appointment to virtually every available place on federal commissions, but thus far he has not been appointed to any of them, and speculation has been aroused over his future place in Washington officialdom.

Prior to his most recent visit here he made a flying trip to Detroit where he was reported to have met quietly with two Detroit business executives.

Had he wished it, West, a native of Mt. Vernon and once a congressman from the 17th Ohio district, as compensation for his unsuccessful entrance as the administration candidate into the Ohio 1934 senatorial primaries, could now be holding down a ministerial post abroad, far from political maneuverings at home.

The administration offered him such positions, it is known, but West who had been circulating in

Active at 110

DESPITE his 110 years, David Horowitz of Chelsea, Mass., is healthy, jocular and quite active. He spends much of his time reading.

Ohio politics for several years notwithstanding his professional duties, likes it also on a national scale and preferred to be on the American scene. He has enjoyed his work as "contact man" with Congress for the President, it is said.

Rise Meteoric

His rise to a position of confidence within the inner circle of the President's advisers from a relatively obscure post as college professor and congressman was one of the most meteoric in American politics.

Prior to his connection at Denison he taught at Wooster, Tufts, and at Harvard where he pursued post graduate studies. During the second Wilson Administration he was American vice consul in Naples, Italy. He is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University.

Adding Injury to Insult!

The landlady observed one of her younger boarders busily engaged in cleaning his silver before eating, and immediately pounced on him.

"In the first place," she said, "it's bad manners. In the second, it soils the linen."

DRIVE TO SAVE U. S. WILD LIFE FAR ADVANCED

Week Of March 20-26 Set Aside For National Celebration

DATES PROCLAIMED

Move To Protect Nearly Extinct Game Gains

WASHINGTON, March 17 (UP)—Memories of American "pioneer days" when bison populated the Western Plains like "one great robe" will be revived during the national celebration of "Wild Life Week," from March 20 to 28.

President Roosevelt proclaimed the national observance of the week, sponsored by the General Wildlife Federation, to give unity and power to the efforts of 30,000 local organizations seeking preservation of the wild life of this country, whether in forest, lake or stream.

Behind the current enthusiasm of fishermen and hunters for the assured conservation of fish, fowl and game, there also will be a broad national interest in programs undertaken to assure the perpetuation of the great Western mammals, such as the bison, elk, bighorn, antelope and the grizzly bear.

Slow Extinction Prevented

A quarter century ago it appeared that the typical North American animals were facing extinction before the onrush of civilization, and the "last stand" of some of these for a time was the theme of song and story. But today, records will show, a considerable number have been saved, and they are assured of grazing areas and official protection favorable to their future increase.

Trapper, pelt-hunter, wagon-driver, cattleman, railway builder and pioneer settler all took a turn at depopulating the once teeming animal population of western America, but a gradual awakening of the national imagination and conscience to the meaning and value of the "pioneer" animals in the national life gradually brought support to the movement for conservation.

President Theodore Roosevelt, once a rancher in the Dakota "bad lands," was in the van of this movement. It obtained powerful national support also from Stephen T. Mather, of Chicago, late director of the National Park Service. Horace M. Albright, formerly superintendent of Yellowstone National Park and now president of the America Planning and Civic Association, interested several Presidents in the animal life problems of the Rocky Mountain area.

Darling Active Campaigner

Recently, Jay N. ("Ding") Darling, cartoonist, has lent his trenchant pencil and graceful brush to the welfare of the nation's wild life. His beautiful poster-stamps are a feature of the "National Wildlife Week" celebration, and thousands of other "conservationists" have helped.

Today the bison population of the United States and Canada is estimated to total 20,000. The prong-horn antelope, swiftest animal of North America, whose threatened disappearance worried conservationists most, is numerous in several states now.

Bighorn sheep and Rocky Mountain goats find safety in several national parks and national forest ranges, and the beaver population is large enough to be a problem to farmers in some areas. The almost-human antics of the beaver have become a popular subject in short-reel films.

Grizzly Bear Saved

Game conservationists have been heartened also by the assured preservation of the grizzly bear, most powerful and ferocious of Western mammals. These animals are numerous in the Yellowstone National Park and environs, in the Rocky Mountains.

Nine federal areas have been established especially to aid wild life preservation, and others have been projected. These areas embrace 2,991,017 acres. Animals also find special sanctuary in the national parks, and seasonal protection in the large national forests.

The National Bison Range was established in 1909, especially to protect bison, but also affords sanctuary to considerable numbers of elk, deer, mountain sheep, wild ducks, grouse, beaver and pheasant.

An Elk Refuge was established at Jackson, Wyo., in 1912, to safeguard the elk that range from Yellowstone Park southward.

The Fort Niobrara game preserve was established in Nebraska in 1912. It protects buffalo, elk, deer, antelope, beaver, grouse, and the bird famous in pioneer literature—the prairie chicken.

The Sulley Hill game preserve in North Dakota, established in 1914, is populated with buffalo, elk, white-tailed deer, pheasant, geese and ducks.

The Charles Sheldon Antelope Range, established by executive order in 1935, is large enough to afford an extensive grazing district for antelope.

Another area for especial benefit of antelope is the Hart Mountain Antelope Range, in Lake County, Oregon, established in 1936.

The Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge, in Oklahoma, helps to perpetuate elk, Virginia deer and Texas longhorn cattle.

The Desert Game Refuge, established in 1936, in southern Nevada, is for the special benefit of Nelson's Bighorn, or mountain sheep.

DOCTOR'S DEED AS SAMARITAN WINS ACCLAIM

HUGHSON, Cal. (UP)—Residents of this city are confident they could revise the parable of the Good Samaritan with a true story out of real life that would modernize the parable.

The Hughson version of how the modern parable of the Good Samaritan should read is something as follows:

Dr. O. D. Ellefsen was returning in his automobile from a professional call when he was accosted by a 14-year-old boy who said that his aunt was seriously ill and asked the doctor to go to her immediately. The boy got into the car and gave the necessary instructions as to where his aunt lived, but suddenly when they were in a secluded place, the youth drew a revolver and ordered Dr. Ellefsen to stop and hand over his cash.

Before Dr. Ellefsen could comply the pistol was discharged. The bullet wounded the youthful holdup man in the thigh.

Dr. Ellefsen remembered the parable and gave the boy first-aid treatment and then drove him back to the county hospital.

Recent analysis of religious faiths in 1,340 U. S. colleges indicates that 85.3 percent of the students have a definite religious preference.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Low Ayres and Louise Campbell form a new romantic team in "Scandal Street," which patrons of the Cliftona Theatre will see beginning Friday. It is a story of small town life, in which the charm and beauty of a young girl cause the women of the neighborhood to wage a war of gossip against her, until she is actually accused of a mysterious murder. Roscoe Karns, Porter Hall, Edgar Kennedy, Elizabeth Patterson and Virginia Weidler head the supporting cast.

AT THE GRAND

"Marry The Girl," a rollicking farce-comedy into which Warner Bros. have put a wealth of funny players, has been booked as the next feature attraction at the Grand Theatre, and will have its opening on Thursday.

Rarely does any movie have a cast including such top-rankers as Frank McHugh, Hugh Herbert, Mary Boland, Mischa Auer, Alan Mowbray, Allen Jenkins, Carol Hughes, Olin Howland, Teddy Hart, Hugh O'Connell, Charles Judels and Louise Stanley.

"Coining" a Pun!

"Well," remarked a married man, after examining his friend's new apartment, "I wish I could afford a place like this."

"Yes," said his friend, "you married men may have better halves, but we bachelors usually have better quarters."

Not a High Hat in a Hundred

THE PEOPLE whose children go to school with yours—the folks who sit next to you at the movies or at church—thrifty, hard-working folks—you, yourself, in all probability—own the railroads.

For the railroads belong to 855,000 separate owners of railroad stocks—the majority of individual owners have somewhere between 10 and 100 shares—and to the hundreds of thousands who own railroad bonds.

But this is only a starting point. Half the total population has life insurance and all of these people have an indirect ownership in the railroads—because insurance companies are large owners of railroad securities.

Take another group—anyone who has a little money in a savings account has an indirect ownership in the railroads, because savings banks also own railroad securities.

Look them all over and it's easy to see there's not a high hat in a hundred. The real owners of the railroads are just folks.

That's one of the reasons why it's important to the average American for the railroads to prosper. Only when they take in more than they pay out can they pay for the use of the money which these people have invested.

With this fact in mind, the railroads have worked steadily for improved service as a means of winning business. For example, they have developed more powerful locomotives, longer trains, greater dependability; have speeded up freight trains 50 per cent; air-conditioned and modernized passenger equipment; improved their safety record.

Anyone who looks at the total record must be impressed with the enterprising spirit of the railroads. Your patronage and support are essential if the railroads are to continue to supply America with the finest transportation in the world.

FELLER TO HURL FOR ONE FRAME IN 1938 DEBUT

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 17—(UP)—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indian's "million day kid" and baseball's greatest gate attraction, was to make his Spring pitching debut here today by hurling one inning of an exhibition game against the New Orleans Pelicans.

A year ago Feller worked long and often, but Manager Oscar Vitt made it plain at the start of the training camp that the Iowa schoolboy would be used sparingly in exhibition games so as not to strain his arm. Despite pressure from many quarters the tribe's new leader has followed that plan.

Sharing the mound burden with Feller today was to be Bill Zuber and Willis Mudlin.

Cleveland gained an even break in its series with the Philadelphia Phillies by taking a well-played 5 to 4 decision from the National league club yesterday.

Mel Harder, Al Milnar and Denny Galehouse pitched for the Indians and gave up but seven hits. The Tribe raked Buckly Walters and Hugh Mulcahy for 10.

The hitting star for Cleveland was Hal Trosky, who secured three safeties in as many trips to the plate.

TEMPLE QUINTET WINS HONOR AT NEW YORK MEET

NEW YORK, March 17—(UP)—The first national collegiate invitation basketball championship belonged to Temple's towering Owls today. They amassed 169 points and crushed three outstanding sectional title-holders.

The Philadelphians saved their steam-roller act for last and smashed "Whizzer" White's Colorado five 60-36 in the tournament final. It was the worst defeat for the co-champions of the Rocky Mountain Big Seven this year, and one of Temple's most impressive victories. In the opening round the Owls mauled Bradley Tech, Illinois conference champions, 53-40, and in the semi-final outclassed Oklahoma A. and M., Missouri Valley titlist, 56-44. Oklahoma won third place honors with

THREE ROOKIES CONSIDERED A S VARSITY GARDEN

Moore and Schott Divide Full Game As Manager Tests Hurlers

TAMPA, Fla., March 17—(UP)—Bill McKechnie may not work the miracles with the Cincinnati Reds that he did a year ago with the Boston Bees, but at least he indicated today he would not "stand pat" on his club and trust to luck to pull it out of the National league cellar.

McKechnie has done much experimenting with the entire club, but his greatest shake-up of talent has been in the outfield. If the Reds were opening the championship campaign tomorrow, Cincinnati fans would see three new players patrolling the gardens.

The newcomers likely to gain the outfield berths are Lee Gamble, "Dusty" Cooke and Harry Craft. All three are fast and have shown the ability to hit. The lone weakness detected in the play of any of the trio thus far is a weak throwing arm owned by Gamble.

The Reds took a routine drill yesterday, but will return to exhibition warfare today when they tangle with the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg.

Continuing his policy of testing his pitchers at the earliest possible time, Manager McKechnie announced he would work Lloyd (Whitey) Moore five innings, with Gene Schott telling the other four. Moore and Schott gave impressive performances last Sunday as they downed the Boston Red Sox.

a fast 37-24 victory over N. Y. U. last night.

The tournament sweep gave the eastern conference champions a clean claim to the mythical national title.

Winner in 23 of 25 starts, Temple has taken such sectional powers as Illinois, Stanford, Southern Methodist, West Virginia, Carnegie Tech, Navy and Pittsburgh. An early season defeat by Georgetown was avenged by a 17-point margin. An eight-point licking by Villanova was the only black mark unerasd,

CONTRACT BRIDGE

KNOW THE ODDS

A THOROUGH player either knows the odds for and against the various idiosyncrasies of the cards or else is a sound mathematician in estimating the more important ones. For instance, a plain finesse is usually about an even money chance, whereas the odds favor seven missing cards being divided four and three by better than even money. Thus if a straight choice is offered between a finesse and that distribution, it is better to count on the distribution.

North 4-Spades, South 5-Diamonds and North 6-Spades.

When the diamond 2 was led, the 3 was played from dummy, East played the 10 and South the A. The declarer, instead of taking the heart finesse, immediately decided to attempt to set up that suit. The heart A was cashed and a heart ruffed. Next came a spade to the A and another heart ruffed. The spade J was played, followed by two more rounds of spades. On the heart Q, the diamond was discarded and on the heart 9 a club. After leads of the clubs A and K, one club trick was given up.

COUNTY OFFICIALS DISCUSS WAYS TO STOP MIGRATION OF INDIGENTS

100 PARTICIPATE IN CONFERENCE ON RELIEF TASK

Cost To County Thousands, Director Of Aid Tells Gathering

DR. BLACKBURN SPEAKS

Housing Regulations Urged To Right Condition.

Cooperation of officials of the various subdivisions of Pickaway county to check the migration of indigent families into this district and prevent them from obtaining legal residence was urged by D. H. Marcy, relief director, at a meeting in the courthouse Wednesday evening.

Approximately 100 persons, including township trustees and clerks, county, city and village officials attended the relief conference called by the county commissioners. Every subdivision was represented.

"Fifty percent of the persons now on W. P. A. and obtaining relief in Pickaway county were neither born nor reared in this county," Mr. Marcy told the officials.

"At the present time families from southern Ohio counties and states south of Ohio are migrating. With the cooperation of the various officials we can prevent these indigent non-residents from becoming legal residents of our county."

Small in Three Years

Mr. Marcy explained that during 1934, 1935 and 1936 the migration of families was comparatively small as they were able to obtain relief. Since some counties have had difficulty working out their relief problems the migration has started again, he said.

"The 'tiding over process' of some of these families has cost Pickaway county thousands of dollars," he said. "They come here during corn cutting season and remain in the county."

"We can't starve out these people but we can give them temporary aid and start proceedings immediately to have them returned to their legal residences."

Six families were removed recently from the county and Mr.

Three Hospital Employees Voted Boosts in Salaries

Three Berger hospital employees, the janitor, cook and maid, were granted salary increases effective May 1 in legislation passed by council, Wednesday evening. The increases were in ordinances revising regulations for the institution.

Salary of the janitor was increased from $80 to $100 a month, the cook from $50 to $60 and the maid from $40 to $50. The ordinances fixing the salaries were given third readings and passed by the city dads. Other salaries established pital was fixed at one superintendent $125 a month, staff nurses $90, and technician, $90.

The minimum staff of the hospital was fixed at one superintendent, five nurses, technician, cook, maid, day-time janitor, and night janitor and assistant maid to be employed when needed. The original regulations of the hospital provided for only three nurses and no technician. It provided nurses were to reside at the institution. The new regulations provide also that additional persons may be employed at the institution when needed.

Dr. Blackburn Speaks

An appeal to city and village officials to establish housing regulations was made by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, health commissioner. He told of some of the places he had visited. "We have a wonderful county but in it are some of the most deplorable huts I have ever visited," the doctor said. He described one and added "you farmers wouldn't put a hog in it without first cleaning it out." The physician explained that if the city and village councils adopted housing regulations such places could be condemned.

"No persons but undesirables will move into such places," the doctor said. "In order to protect your children you should study the housing situation."

He told of the difficulties experienced by the health department with children from these huts introducing lice and itch into schools. Difficulties experienced in keeping children of these indigent families in school were explained by G. D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools. Many of them do not have clothing and shoes to attend school, he said, and in some instances children 12 and 14 years of age must be placed in the third and fourth grades.

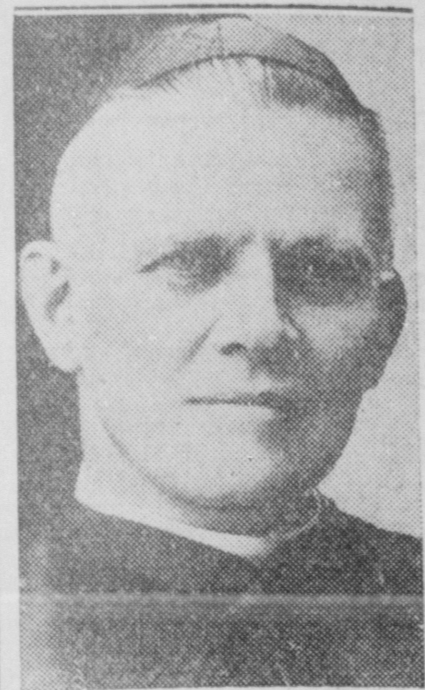

Frank Goff, probation officer, told of some of the experiences he had encountered in investigating cases.

Karl Herrmann, Circleville safety director, spoke briefly. He told of the difficulties developing at Berger hospital in handling some of the relief cases.

New laws concerning the transporting of indigent families into a county were distributed by George Gerhardt, county prosecutor.

The meeting closed with a discussion of various relief cases.
